Labors of the International Range Convention Finished.

Knights of Labor Renew Their Fight Against Coal.

Debate on Parnell's Amendment in the Commons.

The Cattle Convention.

DENVER, February 10.—The greater part of the day in the International Range convention was occupied in the discussion of the proposition made by E. N. McGillan of Cleveland, Ohio, yesterday, to pool the interests of range cattlemen, and form a company with a hundred million capital for carrying on the scheme. The matter was finally referred to the board of directors of the association. Mr. McGillan's statement that one-third of the cattlemen of the west were bankrupts was severely criticised, and the following resolutions bearing upon the subject were adopted unanimously:

WHEREAS, Reports have been circulated by parties misinformed as to the condition of the range cattle growing industry of the United States, representing the financial status of the business in a light which has no relation to fact, magnifying a few individual failures by giving to them a general application as illustrating the instability of the industry, and otherwise seriously misrepresenting people who have their capital invested and are employing their energies in this occupation; and

WHEREAS, Such false reports have appeared in several public journals in various parts of the country, where the condition of our business is not understood, and has or may operate to the injury of an important and legitimate industry; and,

WHEREAS, Careful investigation has demonstrated that no other branch of business prosecuted in the United States can be credited with a less number of financial failures than the livestock growing industry, and that such failures as have occurred are directly attributable to fraud and other speculations foreign to the business; therefore

Resolved, That this International Range association, composed of men from the various states and territories engaged in range stock growing, take this opportunity to deny the truth of the reports aforesaid; that while we have shared in the general depression which has prevailed and are subject to some unjust restrictions in marketing our products, we are yet able to declare our business in a reasonably healthy condition with every prospect of improvement in the future.

After adopting the resolutions, endorsing the inter-state commerce law and the official acts of Norman J. Colemna, commissioner of agriculture, the convention re-elected Col. R. G. Head of Colorado president, J. L. Brush 1st vice president, J. C. Leary of New Mexico secretary, and a board of directors, and adjourned sine die.

The Knights Renew the Fight.

NEW YORK, February 10.—An Evening News extra says: District assembly 49 put on an additional coat of war paint at its conference early this morning, and ordered out everybody in the beer, ale and porter breweries in this city, Yonkers, Jersey City, Brooklyn, Staten Island, Newark and Paterson, as well as members of the eccentric association of stationary engineers employed in different factories within its jurisdiction. The order is to go into effect to-morrow, and it is estimated that the number of men who will stop work in the breweries alone will amount to about 12,000. The number of those who will be thrown out by the strike of the engineers will run far into the thousands. No exact general estimate could be furnished at present, but it is certain that if they do quit a majority of the big factories will have to close down.

Assembly 49 claims that on the strength of assurances that arrangements were being made for arbitration of the coal troubles it rested on its oars and lost some ground. Now it intends to regain that ground and get some more. Number 49's executive board say they have positive information that some of the coal companies are pressed for loans on new bonds, and they believe that with the arrangements they are making in connection with the stopping of work by employes of breweries and engineers the demand for coal will grow so limited that the companies will be glad to come to terms. The ostensible reason for their strike is that the breweries and other manufactories are using "scab" coal.

To a reporter a high official of 49 said this afternoon: "You can say that all stories that the strike was on the point of disrupting and coming to an end have been made through misunderstandings or manufactured out of whole cloth. District 49 has simply ceased from further matters further in the idea that the coal companies were about to have all differences settled by arbitration. We have been undeceived on that point, and now we intend to renew the battle with a vengeance; nor will extension of the strike stop with the measures to be carried out. If necessary we shall call out the men in other lines. District 49 is now determined to fight the battle to the bitter end, and instead of meeting with defeat we are more than ever confident of achieving success. He added that the settlement with the Reading road had not yet been sanctioned by 49, that it was doubtless made with the understanding that Corbin would get other companies to come to the same terms. He said it remained to be seen whether Corbin was acting in good faith, and added that if he were not Reading men will stop work when called on.

The news flew along the piers and wharves, and the strikers visible were unusually numerous and much more cheerful than they had been for some days. James E. Quinn, business workman of district assembly No. 49, and Victor Drury went to Boston last night. They are to confer with district assembly No. 30 of Massachusetts in relation to the strike. Knights in Massachusetts may be called out whenever such coal is used.

Debate in the Commons.

LONDON, February 10.—Redmond, nationalist, resumed the debate on Parnell's amendment this evening in the commons. He said he spoke as one soon to undergo, in company with John Dillon and others, a trial which would probably end with imprisonment for resisting in the operation of the plan of campaign. As far as the plan has been applied not more than twenty estates had up to date been brought under its operations, and in no case was it proposed the deprive the landlord of his rent, but simply enable tenants to bank their money for protection in cases where landlords refused to make a fair reduction. In every instance in which the plan has been tried the landlords found it advisable to make concessions, mainly due to the plan. This winter there had been fewer evictions than for several years previous, and almost total absence of outrages.

The Marquis of Hartington said the plan of campaign was not the main question before the house. To vote for Parnell's amendment was to vote virtually want of confidence in the government. Other questions raised, therefore, could not be discussed on their merits, but only with reference to the effect of the amendment on the fate of the government. Admitting that the relations between landlords and tenants in Ireland were far from satisfactory, it was no remedy to suspend or reduce or abolish payment of rent. Such a plan would be found no boon to poor tenants.

Continuing, Hartington said the real remedies for the agrarian crisis would be found in providing larger productive employment for the people or voluntary emigration conducted and supported by local authorities. [Cheers.] Until where landlords existed land laws must be enforced. It would never be possible to get rid of the ultimate resort to evictions. The course of the government in prosecuting the authors of the plan of campaign was right and straightforward. It was the duty of the government to attack them engaged in any illegal conspiracy and prevent their leading astray tenants who were their dupes. Gladstone had declared the plan of campaign resulted from the policy of the government in refusing to adopt suspension of eviction. Could parliament hold that as the legitimate consequence of the rejection of any measure the people were morally entitled to take the law into their own hands and do what parliament refused to do? [Cheers.] If the plan of campaign was not illegal, if its enforcement was not stopped, it would be an end to all relations between landlord and tenant. It would cause interneine war and result in the total destruction of the power of the landlord to obtain any rent except what the tenant chose to pay. Suppression of the plan was a necessity if order was to be preserved. Parnell has referred to the probable recurrence of dynamite outrages. He admitted that Parnell was not in a position to control dynamite crimes, but he was in a position to disown them. [Cheers.] They were not disowned. Parnell contented himself with warning parliament that if a certain course was pursued dynamiters might resume operations. As to home rule, there remained a steadfast solid barrier of 303 votes to Gladstone's policy. It was idle and useless for home rulers to present vague resolutions to the house on the ground that they had the confidence of the Irish people, knowing they must secure the approval of the British nation.

Viscount Kilcoursie, liberal, supported the amendment, although he said he knew few cases in which the failure induced tenants who were able to pay to refuse to settle with their landlords. He sympathized with the government in their difficulty, but regretted that they had shown less willingness to accede to the wishes of the Irish than to the wishes of the Scotch members. He did not blame the government for the prosecution of Dillon, but he reminded the house of many instances in which acts regarded illegal had become legal.

Samuel Storey, radical, said he could approve the plan of campaign but for a strange prejudice in favor of the decalogue. He denied that there was a likeness between the plan of campaign and trades unionism, because many tenants, able to pay rent, were sustained in refusing payment. It was to be said, however, that the plan succeeded. Further, if parliament refused to act some body must; and if he had been an Irishman and seen helpless remedies cast out upon the hillside, he would have felt and acted like Dillon. He appealed to liberals to unite and carry the home rule movement to a triumphant conclusion.

Henry H. Fowler, liberal, quoted precedents to justify the legitimacy of Parnell's amendment. He strongly condemned the jury system adopted in the Sligo trial and in the case of Dillon. The latter, he said, would be practically in the hands of the crown. Adjourned.

STILL AT LARGE.

Two of the Six Prisoners Still at Large.

Henry Neff Recaptured at Castle Rock.

More Particulars Regarding the Manner of Escape.

The escape of the six prisoners from the county jail and the subsequent capture of three of the party was the prevailing topic of conversation and duty upon the streets yesterday. There seemed to be a general sentiment to the effect that the county commissioners should make some material improvements in the interior structure and fixtures of the county jail.

Under Sheriff Jackson returned yesterday morning from Palmer Lake and Husted where he had gone in the hope of capturing the remaining three prisoners who were still at large. Upon interrogating the agent at Husted he became satisfied that only four of the prisoners had been at that place and that the other two had gone in a direction different from that taken by the others. He could find no traces of Neff, the man who escaped from him at Husted, or any evidences that he had been wounded by any of the shots discharged at him as he was running away.

Mr. Jackson then went on to Palmer Lake and inspected all the freight trains which were side-tracked there, without finding any of the men. He discovered, however, a car containing several tramps who were much scared when the officer pointed his pistol at them in order to keep them from leaving the car. Mr. Jackson gave up the search in that neighborhood as far as he was personally concerned, though he notified quite a number of the ranchmen who were engaged in scouring the country when he left.

Deputy Sheriff Waite who rode the entire length of Cheyenne cañon road, and who informed all the ranchmen along the creek of the prisoners' escape, proceeded as far as Rock creek some 15 miles south of this city along the base of Cheyenne mountain without finding the least trace of any of the escaped men. He returned to town about noon for further orders.

It was reported that two men had been seen going through the field of Mr. Buck, who lives on the Cheyenne cañon road, about daylight, but a careful search of the surrounding territory failed to result in the finding of any one. The officers, however, arrived at the conclusion that the two men Smith and Brach had gone in a southerly direction and would be heard of through the ranchmen in the Fountain valley. A complete description of the two men was sent to the authorities at Pueblo and tidings of their capture may be expected at any minute.

Last evening about 9 o'clock Sheriff Dana who had returned from Denver on the Thunderbolt in the afternoon, received a telegram from Mr. J. F. Janes, a deputy sheriff, at Castle Rock, which is on the line of the Denver and Rio Grande railroad, that he had Neff in custody, and for Mr. Dana to come up and get him. Neff will be brought back to jail to-day, and will be welcomed by his partners, Ryan and Robinson.

The capture of Neff leaves only two prisoners of the six who escaped, at large. It is to be hoped that they will be apprehended as Brach is a hard character and capable of committing almost any crime. Smith, the other man, is one against whom the most damaging evidence exists regarding his connection with the burglarizing of Mr. George Caul's house immediately after it was damaged by fire.

More facts regarding the circumstances of the escape were brought to light yesterday. It seems that three men stood by and saw the prisoners crawling out of the hole in the roof one by one and yet made no effort to give any alarm or prevent their escape.

Their failure to do either of these two things is certainly deserving of the highest censure. For had any alarm been given the prisoners could have easily been re-captured before they could have proceeded to any considerable distance. They were in no danger of bodily violence from the men as all were entirely unarmed and would have submitted without any resistance. No excuse can be offered for their conduct except the one that they were paralyzed with fear or else were dumbfounded with astonishment.

Too much credit cannot be given to Isaac Milner, the prisoner and the man who gave the first alarm. Awaiting trial for murder in the first degree and with the shadow of the gallows or a life long imprisonment impending over him, it would be thought that if any man should desire to escape, and who would embrace any opportunity—to do so, he would be the man, yet he refused to do so, but was the first to notify the officers of the flight of the men. The six men in order to prevent him and the other trusty, Carol, from hindering their movements or giving any alarm tied their hands together to keep them from climbing to the roof and notifying Mr. Jones who was at Mr. Dana's residence a few yards from the jail. They not only tied the hands of these two men but served several of the other prisoners in the same way.

Milner after some effort managed to obtain his pocket knife, with which he cut the cords around his hands, and then released the other prisoners from the same predicament. Then climbing to the hole in the roof, he gave the first alarm of the prisoners' flight. The hope will doubtless be expressed that his conduct on this occasion will receive some substantial recognition. What has been said at length concerning Milner may also be said of the other prisoners who refused to avail themselves of the opportunity of escape which offered itself to them. All the officers are certainly worthy of the highest commendation for their efforts to recapture the prisoners, and had it not been that the party separated after they left the building all would now be behind the prison bars.

Cattle in the North.

CHICAGO, February 10.—A special dispatch from Bismarck, Dak., says: "Reports are coming in daily from the ranges near Bluff, of losses of cattle owing to scarcity of feed and insufficient protection from the severe winter weather. There has been snow on the ground continually since the middle of November, and it has been necessary to feed during that time, whose quantity feed is getting very scarce. All the steers three one, two or three years old, have been brought up by cattlemen, and one dollar per head is readily paid, where it can be found on the ground, for wheat straw. The losses already reach from eight to twenty per cent. Where sufficient shelter and hay have been provided the loss is quite insignificant. Stockmen heretofore have not been compelled to feed but very little hay during the winter, the stock generally rustling for themselves, but the unprecedented fall of snow this winter and length of time it has lain on the ground put a new face on the matter of stock growing, and hereafter there will be more provision for such an emergency.

A special from Butte, Mont., says the cattle loss in Montana is estimated at 75 per cent. Sixty dollars is refused for a ton of coal at Green Willow. Poles are selling at $14 a load. Flour and oil are also scarce." An Englishman named Elliot left Fort Assinaboine with a wagon and team for his home at Maple creek, Northwestern territory, 23 days ago and is supposed to have met his death in the snow, as he never reached his home.

Archuleta Affairs.

DENVER, February 10.—A Chama, N. M., special to the News says: The anarchy in Archuleta county is completely crushed, as Dr. Winters has it within the folds of his autograph album. The part of the joint committee that visited Pagosa Springs returned to Amargo at 4 o'clock this morning, having made the trip across the country during the night. There was no evidence exerted that tended in the slightest degree to prove a state of anarchy in Archuleta county. Thirty-two witnesses were examined at Pagosa Springs, and all of them stand positive in their belief that the sheriff was amply able to preserve the peace and that he was a man that would do his duty when he understood it at the cost of his life. A majority of witnesses examined and who took part in the meeting January 3rd were republicans. The Conejos range is blocked but will be opened to-morrow and the committee will reach Denver Sunday. Sheriff Dyke, County Clerk Taylor and County Commissioners Martinez and Sesse and County Attorney Russell are en route to Denver.

Michigan Floods.

LYONS, February 10.—Lyons is a sea of ice. Grand river rose during the night about four feet, and an ice gorge formed just below the city. The whole business part of the town is under water and great damage has been sustained. The loss will reach into the thousands. Several families have been driven out of their dwellings, and others look to the upper stories. The ice gorge covers an area of about 400 acres and is estimated to be 20 feet thick in places. All mails are cut off from the north.

OSWEGO, Michigan, February 10.—Ice in the Shiawasso river has jammed below the Main street bridge, and the water, already high, is raising gradually. All factories along the river have been obliged to close.

The Work of Congress.

WASHINGTON, February 10.—Nineteen working days remain to the present congress. Thirteen of the 14 annual appropriation bills (including the river and harbor) are not yet ready to go to the president. Ten remain to be acted upon by the senate, nine require action of senate committees, five have not yet passed the house and two have yet to make their initial step from the house committee. To these last year's continuations and yet lingers in conference.

New Mexican Land Frauds.

SANTA FE, February 10.—The United States court now in session here has been engaged since Monday last in trying indictments found at the last term of said court, to the number of over two hundred for alleged land frauds charged to have been committed by citizens of New Mexico. Two cases have been tried and in both cases a verdict of not guilty was rendered by the petit jury.

The End of the Strike.

NEW YORK, February 10.—All along the river fronts today there was no indication that any difficulty exists between longshoremen and railroad and steamship lines. At railroad piers the loading of cars on big floats was being carried on with regularity, and at the coastwise and southern port steamship companies all evidences of the recent struggle were obliterated.

The senate bill increasing the limit of cost of the public building to be erected in Denver passed the house yesterday. The limit is now $578,000. For that sum Denver should secure a creditable structure.

An urgent whip has been issued for tory and unionist members of the house of commons to vote on Parnell's amendment. It does not appear, however, that the hopes of the opposition correspond to the fears of the government, as they are making no special preparations for the occasion.

The recent demoralization of European stock exchanges was attributed to fears of a war or wars on the continent. Securities and stocks are now firm again and operators confident, from which it may be inferred that the cloud has blown over, in the opinion of those who make it their business to possess themselves with the best information.

The president has signed but one of the annual appropriation bills, that for the army. It is not his fault, however. The present congress is farther behind in its work on these bills than any congress for a number of years. The talk of an extra session to provide for the treasury surplus is no longer heard, so there is little to prevent speedy action on the annual bills.

The senate has ordered another conference on the pre-emption, timber-culture and desert land laws, so that there is still a chance that needed reforms will be made this session in the laws governing the acquisition of public lands. Commissioner Sparks denounced the action of the senate as defeating the repeal by loading the bill with amendments calculated to defeat its objects. Senator Dolph's report to the senate yesterday gave another account of the difference between the two houses.

The great strike in New York, which had every symptom of being about to die a natural death, will take a fresh start to-day by the enforced idleness of many more thousands. It is believed that the New York organization will attack the coal companies by stopping the great factories and breweries and thus lessen the demand for coal to such an extent that the companies will be willing to come to terms with their employes. Such a contest must result in victory or death. Many of the longshoremen and freight handlers, finding that the transportation companies were getting along without their assistance, ignored the order of their unions and returned to work. If this last desperate effort should fail, as seems likely, the benefit of organization will not be apparent to members suffering loss of employment through its orders.

Last Sunday Henry Clay Dean, a most notable character in Iowa and the middle states during the war, and for a number of years after, died at his residence in Putnam county, Missouri. Dean started in life as a minister of the gospel and was at one time chaplain of the United States senate. He was a master of invective and fearless in expressing his opinions and during the war expressed himself so forcibly regarding passing events that he became suspected of disloyalty to the union, and the government found it necessary to place him under surveillance. After abandoning the pulpit he practiced law and came to be regarded as the peer of any criminal lawyer in the Hawkeye state. He collected at his home in Mount Pleasant, Iowa, one of the finest libraries in the west. He has not started but little attention lately, although traveling as a lecturer. From his slovenly habits of dress he became known far and wide as "Dirty Shirt Dean."

Many of our readers will remember that the city council passed a resolution a few weeks ago asking congress to grant the city a tract of land in the Pike's Peak military reservation for the purpose of erecting a water [illegible] for [illegible] with a bill drafted by the city attorney, and also a map of the ground asked for were sent to Senators Teller and Bowen and Congressman Symes. The following special in yesterday's Denver Republican explains what action has already taken place with regard to the bill: "The bill reported favorably by Senator Teller from the public lands committee grants to the city of Colorado Springs a specified portion of the Pike's Peak military reservation in El Paso county, and also lots numbered one two three four and five, and the north half and southwest quarter of section twenty eight lots numbered three and four and east half and southwest quarter of section twenty two township four [illegible], range sixty eight containing seven hundred and sixty four and forty eight hundredths acres. These tracts are granted and conveyed to the city of Colorado Springs for the purpose of water storage and supply of water works [illegible] city to have the right to [illegible] premises in the construction of [illegible] laying pipes and [illegible] and making improvements necessary to utilize the waters contained in any natural or constructed reservoirs upon the premises."

It is evident from reports [illegible] Dakota that the people there [illegible] believe a state government. If they cannot get it [illegible] to the sister [illegible] they will have a state of their own [illegible]. The proposition [illegible] upon [illegible] approve [illegible] lowing special [illegible] to the St Paul [illegible] Press:

The leaders of the state movement have got beyond the period of hesitation. The only question now is, can they obtain the necessary support in reconvening the state legislature and starting the wheels of government? They think they can, and already the programme is arranged for beginning operations immediately upon the adjournment of the territorial legislature at Bismarck. The plan does not contemplate any collision between the state men and the federal authorities. Nor is any anticipated, though if an attempt is made to disperse the gathering at Huron by force, there will be resistance. Dakota has between 700 and 800 organized and drilled militia. About 500 of [illegible] are located south of the forty sixth parallel. Some of the chief officers have been sounded and with one exception [illegible] have [illegible] they would take no part in any attempt to disperse the state legislature or prevent the inauguration of the state government. They would not assist in putting the [illegible] persons [illegible] protecting [illegible] the [illegible] If the [illegible] were summoned, but then it [illegible] that Governor Mellette could rely on 400 men at least, and this number could be increased to 5000 if volunteers were called for. But, as I have said, the plan does not contemplate trouble of this kind. The state treasurer will notify county treasurers to pay taxes to him. Those who refuse will be proceeded against legally [illegible] is known of the opinion [illegible] judges to warrant the belief [illegible] proceedings [illegible] the recognition of [illegible] would be sustained. A letter on the subject by Mr James A. Owen has attracted a good deal of attention and has converted many people to the notion that the way to make a state is to make it and waste no time about it. Mr Owen quotes from the United States supreme court 19 Howard 443, in his letter regarding federal authority over the territories and makes a strong argument for the legality of the people's assuming the status of statehood. It looks now as if the state of South Dakota would spring into very lively being about the middle of March unless some kind of action is taken by congress or the territorial legislature.

Frederick Amerling, the painter whose death was recently announced, left the city of Vienna a collection of pictures and antiquities valued at $125,000.

Ex-Governor Bate who is to represent Tennessee in the senate, was at Bull Run, was dangerously wounded at Shiloh, had three horses killed under him at Chickamauga, and was again wounded and is now a poor man.

Gaspard Pacaud aged 27 is a member of the Canadian parliament with every prospect of attaining prominence in that body. Two years ago he was a clerk in a Detroit dry goods store on a salary of $7 per week.

George Westinghouse of Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, patentee of the famous air brake and many other valuable inventions has manufacturing establishments in England, France and Germany and employs nearly 4,000 men. He is a native of Schenectady, New York, and a graduate of Cornell.

David Turpie, who is claimed by the democrats of Indiana as legally elected to the United States senate, served a brief period as senator in 1863. He was elected to serve out the unexpired term of Jesse D. Bright who had been expelled for giving letters of introduction to Jefferson Davis to a man who had invented an improvement in firearms.

Young Mr Fair son of Senator Fair of Nevada, can boast of the most expensive drunk on record when he tried to shoot ex-Representative Page of California because the latter refused to take a drink with him. Young Fair had been promised a cool $1,000,000 if he would go for a year without drinking, and had scored up seven months of the allotted time, but the temptation to go on a tear that would cost a round million was too glittering for his little mind and he fell.

The late John M. Laird of Greensburg, Pennsylvania, was the oldest active journalist in that state. Edwin M. Stanton was once an apprentice in his printing office at Steubenville, Ohio. During the war of the rebellion he was a union democrat, but bitterly opposed Stanton so that on one occasion he had to barricade his office against three furloughed soldiers and indignant citizens who wanted to mob him and drive him out of town. Secretary Stanton heard of it and telegraphed, "Let the old man alone, and do not worry him." After that Laird secured from Stanton the pardon of a young soldier who had been condemned for sleeping on his post as sentry, one of the few pardons the stern secretary ever granted.

Sandwich Islands Phenomena

SAN FRANCISCO, February 10.—Advices from Honolulu report that the volcano Mauna Loa on Hawaii Island is again active. Eruptions began January 15th with the emission of fire, smoke and lava, the latter flowing down the south slope. If its course is not changed it will flow to the sea without doing much damage. Earthquake shocks throughout the island are frequent but without serious consequences.

Rev. J. D. Paris writes from Kawoola Howell under date of January 19th as follows: "For thirty six hours there has been one continuous series of earthquakes—tremulous jars with pretty hard shakes interspersed, running into each other, and our house has seemed like a little craft or bubble floating on the waves of a chopped sea. While I write my table rocks so that it is with difficulty I can keep my seat and hold my pen."

The Murderer Found

FORT WAYNE, Ind., February 10.—A special to the Gazette says: [illegible] Plew, a farm hand, was arrested to day for the murder of the entire Dunham family near Warsaw, the sickening details of which were described yesterday. He is in jail at Warsaw and neighbors of the murdered family threaten to lynch him. Dunham's pocket book and $80 in money were found in Plew's pockets. He was employed by Dunham and two weeks ago they quarreled and Plew was discharged. When he left he threatened to get even with Dunham. A part of Dunham's scalp was found trampled on in the mud, which disproves the theory of suicide. Mrs Dunham is growing stronger but is still unconscious. Dunham and his child were buried in one grave to-day.

A Murderous Stepson

NEW YORK, February 10.—Otto White, [illegible] years old to night went to the residence of his stepmother, Elizabeth White, for the purpose of killing her. A servant named Louisa Wolf opened the door in response to White's ring, and as she did so he fired a bullet through her head and she sank dead upon the threshold. Mrs White, who had retired with her children, ran to the door and her stepson fired a second time, the bullet entering the cheek of his stepmother. Then young White fled and has not been arrested as yet. White's father died about three months ago leaving his entire estate to his wife. He has angered the son, and he has several times threatened to kill his stepmother.

The Pope's Support

BERLIN, February 10.—The Berlin Post's warlike Paris article having fallen flat, that paper now reproves the centre party for its sinful pride in rebelling against the pope's decree. Germany, says the pope, has expressed a wish that our party support the septennate but this is impossible.

The Vienna Neue Freie Presse says that in a recent interview with a French statesman, he said: "France will not commence hostilities because of a belief, perhaps superstitious, existing throughout the country that the power which begins the next war will be defeated."

The Pueblo Outlook

The Pueblo [illegible] the following [illegible] Jack as far as [illegible]

It is evident that [illegible] mistaken in supposing that [illegible] traffic contract with the Denver, Texas & Gulf [illegible] practically [illegible] good authority that the Midland [illegible] Mr Jay Gould—has bought the Denver, Texas and Gulf and that the Santa Fe [illegible] surveying a new line [illegible] Colorado Springs [illegible] Denver [illegible] the necessity of making [illegible] and Colorado Springs and Denver, and [illegible] the Denver, Texas and Gulf would probably fall into the hands of Mr Gould if [illegible] a corps of engineers into the field several weeks ago partly as a bluff and partly to locate a new route. If Mr Gould should [illegible] it, as he has done

It is clear that the Santa Fe intends to connect with the Midland from this city and not from La Junta or any point still further east. This will make Pueblo instead of Colorado Springs the practical terminus of the Midland. The Santa Fe apparently has still other designs upon our town. The Press yesterday gave a brief synopsis of certain articles of incorporation, which have just been filed with the county clerk, for the building of several branch lines to the Mexican Central in old Mexico. Pueblo is made the principal place of business of the company. The Mexican Central is a continuation of the Santa Fe. The relations that exist between them is necessarily close

But why should the principal office of these Mexican lines in which the Santa Fe feels more or less interested be located at Pueblo. Why not locate it at El Paso, in Texas, which is the nearest American town to the scene of operations or [illegible] Topeka in Kansas, where the principal office of the Santa Fe is located? We do not know, without [illegible] to the [illegible] of the Santa Fe [illegible] the Midland [illegible] of the [illegible] with Pueblo will also the [illegible] connection with the Missouri river and all the country [illegible] with Colorado Springs [illegible] Midland [illegible] Mexico and [illegible] the name of Mexican Central included. In point of fact Pueblo will be more [illegible] to the system than any other point that could be selected, [illegible] the principal office of the Mexican branches here. If the principal office of the main line is not to be [illegible]

[illegible] of the Denver, Texas & Gulf in the hands of the new owners? Mr Gould is [illegible] a man who buys property without knowing what he is going to do with it, [illegible] through the [illegible] of the Missouri Pacific [illegible] of counties in Kansas and that the two roads will [illegible] in the neighborhood of Trinidad. [illegible] would give Pueblo and [illegible] connection with the southern part of this state and with the east. With this latter move—we can [illegible] of the Denver, Texas & Gulf by the Missouri Pacific and its extension [illegible]—we suspect that it will [illegible] railroad combination, the Pueblo and [illegible] company, has had a good deal [illegible]

Depreciated Values of Live Stock and Wh[illegible]

Under this head the Chicago Daily Drovers Journal of the 4th inst has the following

The New York Daily Commercial Bulletin of a late date contained an article criticising the manner in which Chicago live stock commission men sell live stock to what it terms the "dressed beef monopoly." It makes the startling disclosure that three dressed beef [illegible] were a few years ago the cattle [illegible] northwest. It states that [illegible] has a tremendous [illegible] the disposition of the product to which they deal and that they control to a greater extent the prices of beef to the consumer is perhaps not an unreasonable assumption. We believe this is true [illegible] fact that it is very generally believed

It [illegible] When the hardy growers [illegible] Montana and Wyoming arrive at the purchasing and [illegible] centers and the [illegible] the cattle king buyers, the [illegible] with the statement that the price [illegible] demand is too meagre to justify the payment of the price asked. The [illegible] seeks another dressed beef buyer but is met with about the same answer [illegible] that he cannot sell his cattle unless [illegible] of them at the price which, it is [illegible] by this [illegible] syndicate

To [illegible] our [illegible] New York writer, [illegible] buyer for four dressed beef houses, but [illegible] buyers and shippers of live [illegible] and ship to all the principal eastern points, and the names of these buyers will be furnished by the Drovers Journal when [illegible]

From [illegible] 1885 to December 31, 1886, [illegible] bought and shipped [illegible] to eastern points, [illegible] weeks at a time [illegible] purchases of cattle to be shipped [illegible] was so great the roads could not furnish a sufficient number of cars to haul [illegible]

[illegible] facts [illegible] to demonstrate [illegible] that [illegible] market [illegible] controlled by [illegible] are our commission [illegible] to and [illegible] suffer [illegible] of and live stock [illegible] that [illegible] to $ [illegible] in New York [illegible] compelled to pay from [illegible] cents per pound when it is [illegible] there are several ways of [illegible] for this. One shipper well versed in the business, said it was chiefly owing to

[illegible] of intelligence on the part of the [illegible] better [illegible] general last fourteen [illegible]

[illegible] we [illegible] paid [illegible] be fifteen [illegible] will be [illegible] for 17 cents per pound. It so [illegible] that the [illegible] with the consumer [illegible] profit

Notwithstanding the above [illegible] from a livest [illegible] that the retailer gets [illegible] share of the profit, the New York [illegible] attributes the decline in live [illegible] high prices the consumer [illegible] the dressed beef [illegible] If there are such great fortunes in the dressed beef business as our New York writer claims will he please inform us why the slaughter [illegible] establishment erected at Victoria, Texas, about three years ago, only ran a few months then closed up and started again last year [illegible] failed, also the slaughtering [illegible] at Fort Worth, Texas, which only [illegible] was closed out, also [illegible] packing house started at Merid [illegible] which commenced about three years ago and was abandoned last year. All these [illegible] been started by men of [illegible] regions where the bulk of our range [illegible] come from and by slaughtering at [illegible] above points they saved all the shrinkage in shipping, freight and feed on the road, stock yard charges and commissions for selling, thereby saving from $5 to $8 per head and still with all these advantages they failed and lost to stockholders several millions of dollars

J B D[illegible] general [illegible] of the New York [illegible] Mr Stern and Mr White both large [illegible] New York [illegible] dealers [illegible] St Louis Dressed Beef company which opened November 1, 1885 and closed down January 1, 1886 after having met with very heavy losses. They opened again [illegible] March 1886 and are slaughtering about 100 cattle daily. Would [illegible] reasonable to suppose that [illegible] money in the dressed beef business (as many uninformed persons believe) the St Louis Dressed Beef company would [illegible] the business more extensively as they certainly have ample capital to do so

There are many good reasons why the producer does not get more for his cattle

1 By badly over stocked ranges

2 Quarantines by all the northern sections, Railway and general labor strikes

4 Glut and demoralized foreign markets

5 The heaviest marketing of beef cattle ever known in a like period

6 The general depression of trades and industries all over the country

7 The pool of railroads running east from Chicago on the 1st of last March raised the rate to 40 per cent on live stock and 20 per cent on dressed beef. This took $[illegible] per head off from every head of beef cattle

8 The Edmunds [illegible] bill took off from [illegible] 50 m[illegible], aggregating over seven million five hundred thousand dollars in this market, [illegible] nothing about the other [illegible] markets of the west, and this vast amount of money goes into the United States treasury, which is already overflowing, and into the pockets of the railway magnates and it all comes out of the producers and consumers

Still it has been and continues to be a favorite theme for eastern writers to enlarge upon and lay it all to the Chicago business men

XLIX Congress

SENATE

WASHINGTON, February 10. The presiding officer presented resolutions of the joint convention of the general assembly in Indiana (republican members) protesting against the validity of the election of David Turpie as United States senator. Referred to the committee on privileges and elections. Also a message from the house of representatives, with the substitute to the senate Chinese indemnity bill

Edmunds said that the two bills appeared to amount to the same purpose except that perhaps the house effected it in the more simple way. He moved that the substitute be concurred in. Agreed to

Jones of Nevada presented [illegible] title [illegible] Horace J Cutter of San Francisco praying congress to make suitable acknowledgment of the [illegible] service of Japanese [illegible] to the clerks of American vessels wrecked by typhoon in the eastern seas. Committee on foreign relations

Dolph from the committee on senate amendments to the house bill to repeal all pre-emption, timber culture and desert land laws reported disagreement and asked for a new conference. He said in answer to a question by Ingalls that the differences in the conference committee had been quite radical but that they might be overcome. The most important point was as to whether where there was suspicion of fraud every case should be finally decided by the interior department or by the courts. House conferees took the ground that the interior department should be the sole and final judge in the matter, whereas the senate conferees insisted that a man whose title was attacked in the land office should have the right of appeal to the courts

Plumb said he had been for many years in favor of repeal of the pre-emption laws, but [illegible] the subject had been under discussion a [illegible] had come into vogue of a character which was not only threatening to individual [illegible] but was subversive of all proper rules of procedure and he thought the rectification of this particular was of much more importance than repeal of the pre-emption law or the timber culture laws or both. He referred to proceedings [illegible] by detectives by private parties under which titles were assumed to be [illegible] on ex parte hearing. This was going to an extent that was paralyzing business in certain sections of the west. He regarded longer continuance of this as a shame and disgrace. [illegible] the pre-emption laws should [illegible] the courts [illegible] anywhere [illegible]

Call defended the administration of the land office and [illegible] was such as was represented by the senator from Kansas [illegible] and impeachment proceedings commenced

After further discussion another conference was ordered

Hale from the committee on naval affairs reported back the bill for the purchase of John Ericsson's Destroyer, and it was referred to the committee on appropriations

On motion of Sewell the house bill to provide for the location and erection of a branch home for disabled volunteer soldiers [illegible] the Rocky mountains appropriating [illegible] was taken up and amended by the adoption of a substitute appropriating $150,000, providing for ten instead of nine managers (one of them to be a resident of a state or territory west of the Rocky mountains) and appointing Jas A Waymire of San Francisco to serve as manager up to April, 1887. The bill as thus amended was passed and conference asked

The senate resumed consideration of the house bill relating to importing and landing of mackerel caught during the spawning season

[illegible] moved to amend by making the bill take effect on the first of July instead of March. [illegible] rejected

The bill was then passed yeas 34 nays 11.

[illegible] moved to strike out the enacting clause. The republicans refrained from voting and left the house without a quorum and this condition remained until the morning hour expired

The house then went into committee of the whole on the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill

[illegible] the bill was an increase over the actual amount carried by the bill of last year of $136,000 but increased collections to the treasury under it would at the lowest [illegible] $1,000

A Pacific Mail Contract

NEW YORK, February 10. An adjourned conference between representatives of the Pacific Mail Steamship Co and the Panama Railroad company to agree on a settlement of differences was held this morning. President Houston and Director Edward Lauterbach represented the Pacific Mail and Messrs Seligman, McCullough, Ellis and Da Costa the Panama Railroad company. The compromise proposed yesterday was agreed to by both companies. It provides for the settlement of the outstanding claim of the Panama railroad of $530,000 by payments of $[illegible] [illegible] of seventy [illegible] for transportation across the isthmus, [illegible] charged the Pacific Mail by the Panama company there will be paid fifty [illegible] and the Pacific Mail company is allowed to relieve its service in any way it chooses instead of being compelled to run a steamer every week as was provided under the terms of the old contract.
